Officer has been updated that Mr and Mrs members of the public visit the police station every Christmas and was brought to the office by a sergeant. They provided a card stating that they are Mr and Mrs. members of the public, from [redacted]. There is no mention that they are part of a business on the card. However, Companies House lists them as being part of [redacted] and both are listed as 'resigned' from that position. This was a publican / brewery company. Google searches do not display anything obvious about the couple currently belonging to a group, or being in a position, of influence i.e. local government members. I have checked with the CSU that this couple aren't known to Police in a negative capacity and nothing untoward emerged.	1 bottle will be provided per LPT team and 1 CSU team in a raffle. CI

A/Supt - agreed; this will have little value except to a small number of Leicester City supporters, it is low value and from persons in positions of authority as opposed to a victim/witness and so there is no imbalance of power.

6810/123	Local Policing and Partnerships	West Division - District Support Staff	21/12/2023	Member of the Public	Yes	£180 approximate estimate	Various sweet treats, coffee, gift voucher, hand drawn art pieces.	Doner was a victim of a historic sexual assault allegation and this investigation originally reported in 2021 was further reopened and allocated to PC to investigate. Doner was accepting of this news and found closure in the matter. She later contacted PC, via text message that she wished to drop gifts to officer and the team as a way of appreciation, officer advised that gifts were not necessary in the matter and this was solely trying to do a good job, never the less doner dropped off two parcels; a bag addressed to officer's team and a box personally addressed to PC. These have not been requested by PC at all and respectfully told doner that it was not necessary for such gifts to be given to me.	Not recorded

Attended Leon Restaurant within Eurotunnel Passenger Terminal Building in plain clothes to purchase a breakfast. Presented Eurotunnel staff pass to take advantage of discount offered to passholders. When the server asked where I worked I advised Police. Paid for meal. The server came over a few minutes after the meal had been delivered with a portion of hash browns. These had not been ordered or paid for but the server said words to the effect of "for all the good work you do". I was not aware of SOP PO2e 3.12 until afterwards. The hospitality was accepted in good faith as it was not felt there could not be any significant conflict of interest with hospitality originating from an on-site business at a location policed by a designated unit. There were no other customers at the time and no concerns about how it may be perceived by members of the public. I am now aware of Policy PO2e should a similar event occur in future.	Accepted as above and recognised to be an innocent mistake by the officer.

The victim is grateful for the support provided by the OIC and the gift has been given with that intention and given freely. The Investigating officer has been transparent in her disclosure of the gift. I am happy for the Investigating officer to keep the gift that has been given.
6826/124	Local Policing and Partnerships	West Division - District Support Staff	08/04/2024	Member of public	Yes	20	Shashibo Cube fidget toy	Donor is the victim for one of officer's cases. She is a 14-year-old child with ADHD and is the victim of a rape at knife point. She is very into her Shashibo Cube's which are a type of fidget toy. Officer has worked on building a rapport with her and did this by playing with her Shashibo Cube's with her. When officer completed an ABE with victim on 08/04/2024 she gave officer one of her old Shashibo Cubes she no longer wanted so that officer could practice for when they next see her. Initially said no to keeping the toy and said it was hers but victim insisted and said she did not use that one anymore and wanted officer to have it. She had already discussed this with her mother who told officer the family all agreed on them having the toy. Officer felt it would be good for rapport if when they next see her, they have the cube with them to show an interest in her hobbies.	Ma'am P - I have reviewed the gift form. The victim in a very traumatic case has given the officer in the case one of her Shashibo Cubes. He has been rapport building and taken an interest in these to assist with engaging in initial conversation. The gift is a genuine one provided by a victim of a serious crime. The officer has engaged well with her and she has therefore wanted to provide him with this gift. There is no intention behind her providing the gift. The officer has been transparent about the gift. I am happy that the officer retains the gift and it is likely to be useful to the CP team when engaging with other children in the future.

She now acts as a Wellbeing Coordinator for 'Wrinkly' which is based at Turkey Mill, Maidstone. She has been supporting a female for the last two years following the death by suicide of husband. Officer attended the death in May 2022 in their capacity as Night Duty DI. They were presented with these biscuits to thank them for the way they handled the investigations surrounding this death and the engagement with the next of kin	I have considered this gift to DI. The gift itself is a genuine appreciation of the work completed by the officer. There is no likelihood that a reasonable bystander would perceive that DI was unable to do his job as a consequence of receiving the gift. DI is free of any obligation to do anything moving forward. DI has been completely transparent in his approach to receiving this gift. I authorise DI to retain this gift of three packets of biscuits with his intention being that he shares them amongst his team within MCET.

Officers have attended the trade stall at Clockhouse Farm having met the owners whilst dealing with a nearby collision in 2023. Upon a visit to the farm whilst passing, the trade counter staff offer supplied with some 'excess produce' for the unit. SLT Comment. Based on the information above I am aware the gift has already been accepted and shared amongst the team. I am assured that there is no expectation of service from the person gifting the fruit and it is of relatively low value. C/Insp
